BENWOOD.

News Notes from the Busy Marshall County Town.

The municipal campaign may be said to have opened last evening, when the Democrats will suggest candidates at a meeting at the city hall. The Republicans are in no hurry, but will get together in good time, and name a winning ticket. Several weeks ago the Intelligence outlined the Democratic ticket. There may be additional names suggested for the principal offices, as for instance, Joseph Tyack and P. L. Mercer are talked of as mayor, and it is said "Joe" Ward may not run. It matters little, however, who the "underdog" runs for this office, Mayor Shepard will be returned for another term.

A Wheeling installment house yesterday secured a wagon load of house furnishings from a McMechen resident who was prepared to leave for Ohio without meeting his financial obligations. The goods had been packed for shipment, and the constable and driver called, and as none of the inmates was at home they secured a key to the house. The McMechen man's surprise may be imagined when he discovered that his home had been cleaned out in his absence.

An interesting case is to be decided by Squire Pierce, of Moundsville. It is a suit brought by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad against the possessor of a ground along the river front, held by shanty-boat squatters, hence is of interest to Benwood, which has quite a stretch of ground on the river front inhabited by shanty-boat dwellers.

The funeral of Mrs. James Barrett, wife of Councilman Barrett, will occur this morning, from the family residence on Washington street. Services will be held at St. John's church at 9:30 o'clock, and they will be largely attended.

Elaine Scott, who picked up the body of Louis Dittmore in the river, returned home yesterday, after a visit to relatives in the city. He was wanted in the Driller trial, at Wheeling, but returned too late to testify.

Miss Emma Price is visiting in Pittsburgh.

The municipal election will occur on April 3.
